Hurricane Season Recalls Great '21 Rainstorm

While residents watch the September skies for clouds to end the current summer drought, oldtimers in the Milam and Williamson county areas may recall the worst rainstorm and flood in history that occurred September 9-10 in 1921.

Probably the greatest rainstorm in Texas history, it entered Mexico as a hurricane from the Gulf. Torrential rains fell as the storm moved northeasterly across Texas, flooding the countryside and killing 215 persons in a five-county area.

According to the Texas Almanac, the greatest rainfall recorded in United States history during 18 consecutive hours fell at Thrall, with 36.40 measured on Sept. 9 It rained 14 inches in Cameron that night, and a total of 23.98 inches fell during 35 hours at Taylor.

Little River reached its highest flood stage within the recollection of the oldest Cameron residents. The water was higher by four and a half feet than during the great flood of 1913, then the most disastrous in history.

According to Herald files, the rise in Little River was approximately 45 feet, coming within the space of a few hours following cloudbursts in Taylor, Belton and Cameron.

Roads and bridges were washed away, along with railroad tracks and trestles, houses, livestock and people. Damage in the county was set at over $5 million after the flood.

One poignant story in the Herald of Sept. 15, 1921, told of searchers finding the body of an aged woman who was strapped to a tree with a blanket.

"The body of the aged woman found near the Green sawmill in the Gabriel river bottom was identified as that of Grandma Bonner, Aged 85 years. The body when found is said to have been strapped to a tree with a blanket. It is believed that some member of the family tied the aged woman to the tree in a last effort to save her live and was then swept away by the current."

She was one of the 63 people killed in the area.

A dramatic story of rescue was also told in the old Herald, that of three Maysfield farmers who were caught in the flood:

"After having spent 24 hours in tree tops in the valley of Little River near Maysfield, Hubert Atkinson, H. L. Yager and Joe Foster were rescued Sunday morning by B. P. Atkinson and Grady Little of Cameron at the cost of many hours on the perilous crest of the flood in a small row boat.

"In going to the rescue of the three marooned men a fourth man, giving his name as Porter, was accidently discovered in a small tree top and saved.

"On receiving a telephone message Saturday night that his brother and the other two men were in the bottom in trees, B. P. Atkinson and Grady Little, expert boatmen, set out by truck to the Elm Creek which they negotiated in their small craft, and thence to Walkers Creek, hiring transportation between streams, and in the manner crossing all streams reaching the river at about 2:30 a.m. Sunday.

"At day break, weary and exhausted, the men put to sea in their row boat. It was to be a hazardous trip, some five miles to fight the current and already weary from the journey to the river from Cameron. But the men, exhausted and harrowed by dangers, reached the shaky little trees about noon and rescued the farmers.

"Forethought had provided hot coffee and food for the men, but although they had spent 24 hours on a small branch of the trees and were hungry and worn, they refused to take food until they had again put foot on land.

"The work of rescue was a courageous undertaking. The men were caught by flood waters while saving stock in the bottom lands."

Milam-Areans

Permits Pass $2 Million

The sky seems to be the limit for Rockdale construction as 1977 building permits have soared over the $2 million mark for the first time in Rockdale history. August building permits issued at City Hall totaled $397,100, pushing the year's total to $2,310,102. With the year only two-thirds gone the 1977 total is already some $500,000 ahead of the previous record year.

'Aggie Pawer' Displayed

Lott Methodist Church is now a sparkling white -- thanks to "Aggie Power" for there were something like 50 young students from Texas A&M who came to Lott last Saturday morning, scraped and painted the church inside and out.

Outside Audit Approved

Bell County commissioners voted to return to the system of an annual outside audit of county financial records and entered into an agreement with an Austin firm. The county judge commented, "At one time the court voted against an annual audit, but events of the past few years have convinced us that we must have accurate financial records."

Sheriff Dies Suddenly

Williamson County was shocked and saddened by the sudden death of Sheriff August H. Bosshard on Friday afternoon, Sept. 2, just three days after his 58th birthday. Bosshard suffered an apparent heart attack while mowing the back lawn of his home in Georgetown.

Energy Waste Deplored

One hundred and forty Wacoans think too many bulbs burn in street lights on University Parks Drive between I-35 and La Salle. They signed a letter to the city manager saying the city could save 66 percent of the electricity being used by removing bulbs from 22 of the 34 poles. The letter noted that the lights are on a mile-long street with vacant land on each side.

School Taxes Increased

After approving a 1977-78 budget of over $2 million for the Gatesville Independent School District, its board of trustees last week voted a 20-cent increase in the tax rate for '77 -- the first hike in seven years. The new rate is $1.70 per $100 valuation, with the valuation based on one-third market value.

Two Injured In Car - Bus Accident

Continental Trailways bus driver Erwin Stanford of Lancaster was injured by flying glass in a car-bus accident at Gause at 11 a.m. Friday. A passenger in the bus, Fay Oldham of Rockdale, was also slightly injured.

The accident happened when the bus tried to pass the car on the right side, sideswiped the car, hit the curb and sheared off a stop sign which went throug the windshield.

Stanford's eyes were hit by the glass and he was cut on the arm. He and Oldham were treated at a Hearne hospital. Jack Dunn, driver of the car, was not hurt.

Buckholts Fire Truck Driver Hurt In Mishap

The Buckholts fire truck driver was injured and the truck damaged Thursday night when it rolled down an embankment and turned over two miles west of Buckholts.

The truck, along with units from Cameron and several other fire departments, was called to fight a grassfire on the railroad right of way. The truck was trying to get to the fire when it went down the embankment.

The driver, August Marek of Rt. 2, Buckholts, was admitted to Scott and White Hospital in Temple with possible back injuries.

The accident, which occurred about 8:30 p.m. was investigated by DPS Trooper Scott Douglas.

New Band Preserves Czech Music

Some thirty-one musicians, who range from Department of Public Safety troopers to mechanics, have formed a new brass band as another attempt to keep Czech music alive, and are succeeding very well.

The Seaton Brass Band, first organized to play at the annual Seaton SPJST picnic in July, includes several Cameron members of Der Rhine Steins who had already made a name for themselves.

The six members who play with Der Rhine Steins include Brady James and Cindy Mitchan, saxophones; Milton Wright, accordion and trumpet; Monroe Marek, trumpet; Travis Hobson, alto and soprano saxophone; and Mike Marek, bass. All are from Cameron.

Wright is a DPS trooper in Cameron and joined the new brass group because "I just like to play." The same sentiments were expressed by the others.

The Seaton Brass Band, under the direction of Ralph Milek of Holand, plays primarily Czech polkas, waltzes and marches. Members range from state stoopers (two) and students to mechanics, a state tax auditor and musicians from other bands. They are young, old and in-between and come from as far away as Hamilton.

Although members receive no money, they stretch their regular practice sessions into four hours with such old-time Czech favorites as "Beer Barrel Polka," "Blue Skirt Waltz," "Red Beer Polka" and "Svestkova Alej," meaning "Prune Song."

The band was organized to "add the necessary flavor to the traditional picnic," according to Nick Morris, Supreme Lodge president. Also, for the musicians' personal enjoyment and "for the culture of the community," he added. "As far as we know, there are no similar groups in Bell County."

Some, like trumpet player and DPS trooper Leroy Schiller, play to keep their Czech heritage alive. "I think it's a good way for us to protect our heritage by the way of music. As a child, I used to think this kind of music was kind of strange -- but, if someboyd doesn't keep it up it'll disappear."

Bill Bowles of Hamilton joined the Seaton Brass Band because "I like to play music -- there's no music to speak of were I am." Bowles plays a double bell euphonium -- an instrument that probably is no longer made, he said.

"This band sounds better than some professionals I was playing with," he said.

A date for taping a half-hour program to be aired on KCEN-TV is expected to be set soon. The opportunity was offered at the July picnic by Jim Ham, public affairs director at the television studio.

Cameron To Hosi Old Timers Rodeo

Plans for an Old Timers Rodeo to be held at the Cameron Horse Club Arena on Friday and Saturday nights, Sept. 23-24, have been completed.

The Cameron Horse Club rodeo committee contracted with Othel Dockery of Killeen, to produce the stock for this unusual rodeo. Old Timers Rodeo means that any contestant must be at least 45 years young to compete in any of the events.

Events will include bull riding, bronc riding, bulldogging, calf and steer roping, and barrel race. In calf roping and a breakaway roping event, a youngster must be at least 55 years old to contest.

There have been several Old Timers Rodeos this year. An Old Timers Rodeo Assn. - OTRCA - was formed at the recent Killeen Rodeo. Several former world champions have contested and plan to enter at Cameron. The contestants all have a good time and put on a good rodeo for the spectators.

Silver and gold belt buckles will be awarded to the winner of each event in addition to an All Around Champion Cowboy buckle.

Sept. 23 , 24 was selected so as not to compete with area football. Both the Yoemen and the Tigers have an open date. Rodeo time will be at 8 p.m. both Friday and Saturday nights.

Small Tornado Hits Near Gause

A small tornado touched ground out of a thunderstorm shortly after noon Friday on the Earl Hardcastle ranch about two miles southwest of Gause.

The ranch home was damaged by wind and water and a shed and power lines were blown down. Mrs. Hardcastle said "It sounded like a train had jumped the tracks."

Buckholts Trustees To Meet

Buckholts school trustees will meet at 8 p.m. Monday, Sept. 12 in the school library. The agenda will include approval of the district's 1977 tax roll, and consideration of new and amended policies and regulations for the school district.

A New Gas Source...

The U. S. and Canada have signed agreement to jointly build a 2,700-mile pipeline across Canada to bring Alaskan natural gas to the lower 48 states.

It was decided by both American and Canadian leaders after President Carter and energy experts established that a savings of $6 billion in fuel costs would be enabled by taking the overland route directly to pipeline connections in the Northern United States.

Completion date for this new pipeline connection is sometine in 1982 or 1983 experts estimate.

It is another step in reducing U. S. dependence on foreign energy. Oil has already begun to flow through the Alaskan pipeline to southwest Alaskan ports for transport to the U. S.

This combination should allow this country independence of major Mideast oil needs by the mid-80s. It is too bad that oil and gas production and necessary transportation of these commodities weren't allowed sooner.

Texas oil proration is at 100 percent. Oil exploration has picked up in this area, more in a few major finds than general drilling activity.

The Alaskan Arctic are said to be loaded with immense reserves of natural gas. And oil is already flowing from major new sources there.

The agreement can be overturned in Congress, but no indication has developed whether or not the Congress has any major concern over whether the route chosen has any particular objection in terms of national interest.

It is another move which will in the next few year resolve some of the dependence on foreign energy and perhaps re-establish a pricing structure more favorable to producers and consumers.

The transportation cost will increase the cost of this natural gas, but it will finally ease shortages in some parts of country, such as those anticipated in the Northeast this winter.

Nasty Winters...

If the past July and August have been among the tougher summer months in recent decades, consider what the Farmers' Almanac foresees.

"For 1977-78, we show another rough winter, with cold and snow aplenty although not as bad as the winter just past." the 161st annual edition says.

If that's the case, the north and south U. S. may be in for another bitter winter, particularly north where the snow flies.

We refer to Texas Almanac for statistics and other information about Texas, but we have yet to read Farmers' Almanac in recent years.

Like many, we often have heard how the editors of Farmers Almanac advise on weather and everything relating to it.

This time it is a good bet the prediction is accurate. Tough weather last year, particularly in the Northeast, has sent people to their maps and geography books to study the warmer Sunbelt states.

And if the traditional Almanac is correct, we are going to see additional people heading this direction just because of the burdens, the cost and the drag of nasty winters.

Crime And Justice In America III

Urban Crime

By James F. Short, Jr.

Editor's Note: This is the fourth of 15 articles in a series exploring "Crime and Justice in America." In this article, sociologist James F. Short, Jr. of Washington State University discusses the dimensions of the urban crime problem and suggests the possibilities of controlling crime through community action. This series was written for COURSES BY NEWSPAPER, a program developed by University Extension, University of California, San Diego , and funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. Supplemental funding for this course was provided by the Center for Studies of Crime and Delinquency, National Institute of Mental Health.

Crime has become a symbol of the city.

No other problem so embodies the fears and concerns of city people, or their apparent impotency to protect their persons and property, or to gain control over their lives.

City people -- compared to others -- are justified in their concerns over crime. "Street crime," "ordinary crime," by whatever name we call it, is predominantly an urban problem, though in recent years serious crime rates have been increasing more rapidly in suburban and rural areas than in large central cities.

Recorded crime has in fact increased substantially in city and country alike -- by about one-third since 1970, for serious violent and property crimes, and by more than double since 1960, according to the Uniform Crime Reports of the F.B. I.

Public alarm over the seriousness of crime has grown in recent years along with rising official crime rates.

Yet in fact, people may not be as powerless to affect the extent of crime as they think. An increased understanding of who commits most crime and why points to the very real possibility of achieving some measure of crime control through community action.

CRIMINAL STATISTICS

The statistics of crime must be viewed with caution. Sometimes the actual amount of crime is overstated, sometimes understated. Lincoln Steffens tells in his autobiography how he and rival reporter Jacob Riis "created" a crime wave in turn-of-the-century New York City merely by publishing stories of crimes ordinarily ignored by that city's press. Similarly, a Colorado study indicates that public opinion about crime reflects newspaper coverage of crime more closely than actual crime rates.

In addition, changing laws, for example, those regarding the manufacture, distribution, and use of drugs, change not only the statistics of crime, but the behavior of those who enforce the law, as well as those who violate it and are protected by it.

Increased alarm over crime has also led to increased reporting of criminal victimization.

The precise amount of unreported crime is impossible to determine, but a decade of surveys suggest that the actual amount is two to three times that recorded in police statistics.

The conclusion that there is much more crime than is reflected in official statistics is supported by extensive studies in which citizens -- usually young people -- are asked to respond to questions about their own commission of crimes. These studies find that virtually everyone does things that are illegal, but relatively few go on to become serious criminals.

YOUTH AND CRIME

Among those who do commit serious crimes, young people from age 15 into their early 20s are heavily over-represented.

The highest proportion of arrests for the violent crimes of homicide, forcible rape, robbery, and aggravated assault for the past several years has been of 18-year-olds; and for burglary, larceny-theft, and motor vehicle theft, of 16-year olds.

Arrests of females for serious crimes have increased in recent years, but about 90 percent of those arrested for serious violent crimes and 80 percent for property crimes are male. Finally, arrest rates are highest for blacks and most other minority groups, and for the poor.

No one argues that being poor, young, male, black, or an urban resident makes one criminal. But these associations provide important clues to causation and to control.

So powerful are these associations between crime and age, sex, and urban poverty that they help to explain a large proportion of recent changes in crime rates. The population aged 14-24 increased during the 1960s by more than 50 percent -- the highest in our history, compared to only 10 per cent during the 1950s and about the same projected for the 1970s. This placed great pressure on law enforcement, at a time when national and world events combined to produce explosive changes. Violence associated with an unpopular war and unfulfilled promises of the civil rights movement provided a legacy of crime into the 1970s.

POLITICAL VS. "ORDINARY" CRIME

While the vast majority of youth retain conventional aspirations and attachments to conventional institutions, some do not.

The fragility of highly urbanized, technologically dependent societies is dramatically revealed by political kidnappings, airplane hijackings, threats to city water and power supplies, and seemingly random assaults justified by their perpetrators on political and ideological grounds.

The distinction between ordinary and politically motivated crime often is difficult to make, especially in countries such as Northern Ireland that are plagued by deep political, religious, and economic conflicts. The rhetoric of ideology is widespread also in the United States, especially among some youth gangs and in prisons where those convicted of serious crime are over whelmingly poor, young, minority - status males. Many have little attachment to legitimate organizations and institutions, and therefore little stake in conformity.

Prison seldom strengthens conventional ties. Lessons learned and contacts made in prison provide greater opportunity and incentive both for revolutionary political activity and for a career in crime.

CAUSES AND CONTROL

Locking people up more efficiently and for longer periods of time may achieve a greater measure of safety -- in the short run. In the long run, it is simply too expensive, and too divisive to society, to keep large numbers of citizens isolated for very long.

We must, therefore, deal with the causes of the crime problem in more fundamental ways, even as we protect ourselves from the most violent and destructive by incarceration.

The causes of crime range from parental and peer relationships to media messages; from individual characteristics to the structure of the society within which laws are written and enforced and inequalities of opportunity, wealth, and status are created and maintained.

The grinding effects of poverty in an affluent, consumer - oriented society, especially among youth who are a glut on the employment market and disvalued because of race or ethnic background, are reflected in the grim statistics of crime.

Recent studies suggest that the most important causes of ordinary delinquency and crime are related to the lack of effective controls emanating in families and other institutions and in communities. Families appear to be especially important in explaining the involvement of youngsters in minor delinquencies and so-called "status offenses" -- behavior for which juveniles but not adults can be arrested. The community, however, is most important in explaining differences in serious criminal involvement.

Family relationships also play a larger role in delinquent behavior in stable and affluent communities, while serious involvement in crime is associated with peer relationships and other influences in economically poor, high-crime communities.

COMMUNITY CONTROL

The lessons of history and of recent experience with large-scale attacks on poverty and crime point to the crucial role of local community involvement in finding solutions to crime.

Such community involvement has included efforts to increase reporting of criminal victimization, labeling of commonly stolen items to make positive identification easier and selling them more difficult, and citizen patroling in cooperation with local police.

Other programs are designed to involve both young people and adults in adjudicating and disposing of less serious crimes by juveniles. Some communities are also experimenting with using volunteers in community correctional programs.

These measures have all helped to reduce some crime in some areas

All programs are subject to abuse, however.

The enthusiasm of discovering new crime control methods often is replaced by the rigidity of routine and of procedures that become unresponsive to ever-changing conditions.

The task, then, is to create community organizations that can remain flexible to meet changing needs and the commitment and continuing involvement of citizens in the affairs of their communities, especially as those affairs involve young people. For that is the crux of the crime problem.

At day break yesterday a picked company of 50 men volunteered their services for work in the bottom lands of the Gabriel and Little rivers and began a search for the bodies of Bailey Turner and H. C. Sullivan, large planters, who have been missing since last Friday night.

Tuesday the city of Rockdale was closed and the citizens, as many as could go, went into the business of rescuing bodies from the lowlands and aiding storm victims.

The most violent storm that has ever been known in this section struck north east of Minerva Friday night, destroying property in its wake and uprooting giant oak trees. It was estimated the gale was blowing 75 miles an hour with torrents of rain accompanied by heavy thunder and bolts of sheet lightning.

A marriage of unusual interest to Cameron people because of the popularity of the bride, and too because of Dr. Whittle and Miss Ruth knowing each other in Mississippi some years ago, and now terminated in happy marriage. The family and close friends knew the marriage was coming but were not looking for it when on Tuesday morning Dr. J. N. Whittle of Jacksonville, Texas, and Miss Ruth Sprinkle went for a drive and went out to the home of Rev. Pardo and took the solemn vows which made the twain one. Dr. Whittle is a M.D. who has recently moved to Jacksonville, a man of wealth and influence.

Last Thursday afternoon Aubrey Hightower celebrated his tenth birthday. Ten little boys and girls came in to enjoy it with him and brought marbles, pencils, perfume, tooth brush and paste, and a number of other things suitable for a boy ten years old.

Quick Quiz!

Q. Will deregulation of natural gas result in conservation of existing supplies?

A. Higher natural gas prices will lead to more efficient energy use. Because this fuel has been artificially regulated at prices below its commodity value, excessive use and waste has resulted. As gas is priced at its unregulated value in a free market, consumers would demand less simply because prices would begin to climb. And as natural gas reaches a realistic competitive level with other fuels, industrial customers will likely use it only when its special qualities cannot be found in substitute fuels. How will greater energy efficiency be achieved? One step is to deregulate natural gas prices.

Out, Out Damp Spots.....

Yoe Backs Ramble At LaGrange, 14-0

The Yoe offense found another halfback to match skittering David Rosemond and the defense jammed Leopard spots before the crowd's eyes, in an easy 14-0 non-district win Friday night over LaGrange.

The Leopard field was still damp from afternoon rain. Bands from Cameron and LaGrange opted against wearing uniforms and played standup-concerts before partisan bleacher crowds.

But sophomore halfback Dean Lewis and his No. 1 counterpart, senior Dave Rosemond, spent the damp evening in the Leopard secondary, Lewis picking up 82 yards in 15 carries and Rosemond 72 yards in 25.

Lewis scored the first touchdown from 30 yards out in early-second quarter. James Thompson kicked the PAT for a 7-0 lead with 9:47 left.

It was Rosemond and his several 8 and 10 yard sprints which drove the Yoemen deep into Leopard territory twice in the first quarter before the Lewis TD.

STEAMER FOR 6

The final touchdown came in the fourth quarter with 4:34 left when quarterback Wayne Steamer took the 11th play in the series into the endzone from the 4. He went in standing up. Thompson again converted the PAT for a final 14-0 score.

It was a night of fumbles as Cameron lost one out of three and LaGrange one out of four.

But a telling toll was the four interceptions the Leopards gave up, two during the late fourth quarter when a slippery ball was changing hands almost every series of downs.

Yoeman Curtis Wise pulled in the third interception to set up the final Yoe drive at the Leopard 37. Yoe backs alternated 10 carries until the Steamer burst across the doublestripe.

The final interception came when defensive back Pete Riola snagged the Leopard quarterback's fourth aerial miscue. The game ended seconds later.

The Yoe defense gave up only 53 yards all night, 30 of those on the ground.

283 YARDS RUSHING

Yoe backs racked up an impressive 283 yards rushing. Steamer is still having trouble finding his receivers as his aerials went one for eight and 8 yards.

Wayne Spells added strength at fullback, turning 37 yards in five carries and Steamer showing promise as a running quarterback with 57 yards in 14 carries.

The Yoe defense is maturing into a junior-senior wall which reads offensive patterns and breaks them down. LaGrange got only 23 yards in 3 pass completions and a net 30 yards on the ground, after such plays as a 15-yard loss in a quarterback sack.

Cameron backs spent a great deal of time just within a shadow of the LaGrange goalposts. At the half, Rosemond had 45 yards, Steamer 42 yards, Spells 37 yards and Lewis 30 yards.

2ND HALF FUMBLES

The second half simply saw at least a half dozen fumbles or interceptions which kept both teams stitched between the 20s, except when Cameron drove the last four minutes.

Riola ran an end-around for the unique run play thus far this season, ripping the left side for 27 yards. It was almost enought to get the Yoemen a score, but a penalty wasted the 51 yards on the drive and sent the game into a frenzy of fumble and falldown until Wise's interception.

Defensive standouts for the Yoemen included Jimmy Zalesky, Steve Hollas, David Cummings, John Schmidt and Riola.

Rogers Player Dies During Football Game

A Rogers junior varsity football player died Thursday night after he collapsed during a Rogers - Troy intersectional junior varsity football game in Troy.

Richard Spanhel, 17, Rogers defensive end, collapsed about 30 seconds before halftime after he was involved in a tackle on the previous play, according to David Hicks, Rogers junior varsity and 7th grade football coach.

"He was knocked down on the tackle," Hicks said. "Someone fell into him. He got into the defensive huddle and staggered off, then collapsed."

Spanhel, of Rt. 3, Temple, was taken to Temple's main Fire Station in a private vehicle and then transported by ambulance to Scott and White Hospital about 9:30 p.m.

Ambulance personnel said that Spanhel had head injuries. He was pronounced dead by Justice of the Peace Joe Harrison

3 Wins, A Tie For Thursday Football

There were three wins and a tie for Cameron Thursday night football.

The Yoe junior varsity Thursday night made it two in a row with a 16-0 shutout of the LaGrange JV while the Yoe Frosh won a 6-0 defensive shutout against the Leopard Freshman.
ard Freshmen.

While this action was played out at Yoe Field, the OJT seventh and eighth grade teams traveled to a muddy, rainy LaGrange Field where the eighth graders held to a 0-0 tie with Leopard eighth graders and the OJT seventh graders won 18 to 12 over the LaGrange seventh grades.

Quarterback Dow Dodd hit a 45 yard pass to flanker Tim Mitchan for a TD and halfback Dennis Rosemond sprinted about 20 yards for the only other TD of the JV game.

Tim Mathews kicked a 35-yard fieldgoal and an extra point to bring the Yoe total to a 16-0 shutout.

Brent Duncan fell on a bad pass from the Leopard center in the LaGrange endzone to assure a touchdown for the Yoe Frosh, which proved the only score of the defensive game ending 6-0.

Safety Push Aims At Crossings

A new effort to convince motorists that when "it's a tie at a railroad grade crossing, nobody wins," has been launched by the Railroad Transportation Section of the Texas Safety Association in cooperation with Texas Railroads.

The statewide program aimed at preventing grade crossing accidents is called "Operation Lifesaver." Texas motorists have a high exposure to potential railroad motor vehicle accidents. with 13,800 grade crossings -- second only in number to Illinois.

"Operation Lifesaver" began in 1972 in Idaho and has been adopted by six other states, all with excellent results.

A year after the program was inaugurated in Nebraska, grade crossing accidents dropped 26 per cent. Kansas accidents dropped 19 per cent, injuries 16 per cent and fatalities 33 per cent following that state's campaign.

Illinois initiated the program last September and one month later the state recorded the first month in 34 years without a grade crossing fatality.

A talk-slide-film presentation is the primary element of the program. It lasts about 30 minutes and is acceptable for any group.

The presentation stresses engineering of crossings for as hazard-free an operation as possible, enforcement of existing laws governing crosssings, and education of the driving public on proper and safe procedures at grade crossings.

"Operation Lifesaver" has the support of Governor Briscoe, who stated, "We all share a deep concern about the death and injury that is occurring at railroad grade crossings in our state."

His support and concern are shared by Co. Wilson E. Speir, director of the Department of Public Safety, who hopes the program "will motivate the motoring public to voluntarily comply with the signs and signals controlling grades cossings."

Bumper stickers, brochures and lifesaver candy are also utilized in the presentations. Anyone wishing to arrange an "Operation Lifesaver" program may contact Jim Johnson, Union Station Building, Houston, Texas 77002.

Christie May Seek Tower's Senate Seat

AUSTIN

State Board of Insurance Chairman Joe Christie resigned Thursday, saying he plans to decide during October whether to seek U. S. Sen. John Tower's seat next year.

"As you know, I am considering running for the United States Senate against John Tower, and I want to make that decision on my own time -- not at taxpayers expense," Christie said. "The Christie Committee tells me things look good and that there is strong grassroots support for my cadidacy. I am encouraged by this, and I will announce my final decision in October.

The Christie Committee, formed recently by supporters of a Christie bid for the Senate, has been assessing citizen support and evaluating his potential as a senatorial candidate.

Christie said he was proud of his work at the board, singling out several reforms he initiated as its chairman.

"We cut our budget by $1.7 million. We were the only state agency to cut our budget, to reduce the number of employees and increased our workload," Christie said. "We have closed the loopholes and eliminated the fine print in accident and health insurance policies, making the board a truly consumer oriented agency."

Nuclear waste

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) Under a $265,000 federal grant, The University of Texas Bureau of Economic Geology will begin studies in the Texas Panhandle to locate deep salt beds in which nuclear wastes might be isolated safely in the future.

The U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration is considering salt beds as a repository for nuclear wastes because water cannot penetrate them and carry wastes into surrounding formations.

MR. & MRS. JOSEPH TRDY

Double-Ring Ceremony Unite Harwell-Trdy

Karon Marguerite Harwell of Cameron and Joseph John Trdy of Cameron were united in a double-ring ceremony on August 27 at the First Baptist Church in Cameron.

The Rev. T. E. Lafferty of Rockdale performed the ceremony. The music was furnished by Jane Smith and songs were sung by Phil Smith and Loretta Kunz.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius L. Harwell of Cameron. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe L. Trdy of Cameron.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal A-line quiana gown with pearled lace trimming the empire bodice and high split neckline. The gown featured lace appliques on the long slim sleeves and a full chapel train. Her veil was of English illusion outlined in pearls and venise lace. She carried a spring bouquet accented with white daisies and baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Sharon Harwell, twin sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Barbara Harwell, sister of the bride, Janet Trdy, sister of the groom, Lynn Litzman, Janet Harwell, sister of the bride, all of Cameron. Rosemary Eickenhorst of Houston, Cindy Clark of Austin, and Leslie Perkins of Fairfield were also bridesmaids. Maid of honor and bridesmaids wore midlength sundresses made of baby blue eyelet material set off with white eyelet lace. They wore white hats trimmed with white daisies and carried a bouquet of white daisies and baby's breath.

Best man was Joseph Jistel of Austin. Groomsmen were Allen Coleman of Rosenberg, Marshall Thompson of Academy, David Hornung of San Marcos, Mark Harwell of Cameron, brother of the bride, Gene Kopriva of Temple, Alva Ray Mullinax of Houston and Darrell Schneider of Austin. Ushers were Mike Schneider of Temple, Gary Trdy of Cameron, Mike Trdy of Cameron and Mark Karilek of Belton.

Ringbearer was Christopher Brown of Temple. Flower girls were Jamie Brown of Temple and Lisa Young of Buckholts.

After the wedding, a reception was held at First Baptist Church Fellowship Hall.

The bride's table held a fountain cake tinted in blue with spring bouquet drop. Flowers were a centerpiece of spring flowers accented with daisies.

Houseparty members were Judy Hyzock of Temple, Debbie Hyzock of Temple, Sandy Smith of Cameron, Cindy Gulbranson of Temple, Jill Cunningham of Cameron, Janet Sheguit of Cameron, Ann Richardson of Cameron and Cathy Schneider of Temple.

The bride is a graduate of Yoe High School and was formerly employed by the City of Cameron. The groom is a graduate of Yoe High School and Temple Junior College and is now employed with D & T Mechanical Contractors in Belton.

After a wedding trip to the Texas Coast, the couple will live in Belton.

The parents of the groom were host for a rehearsal dinner at their home in Cameron.

A brunch was given Saturday morning for the bride, maid of honor, bridesmaids and the mothers of the bride and groom by Sandy Walthall of Cameron, Regina Hairston of Cameron and Gwen Van Cleave of Cameron.

Porcelain Art Guild

Mrs. Alma Graves of Austin, president of Austin's Porcelain Art Club came to Cameron as instructor for a four-day workshop, hosted by the Cameron Guild.

Members came from Bryan, Somerville, Taylor, Austin and several other outlying communities to attend the art classes.

President Eula Crook called a brief business meeting Thursday evening at 7. Program chairman Duffie Caperton introduced Mrs. Graves, the china painters demonstrator for the evening.

Poppies were beautifully done on a piece of china. Then she did a cluster of grapes on another piece. Mrs. Graves gave many helpful hints about the materials to use and how important the first and second firings are to bring out quality. Earth colors are in style now. Everyone felt that each day and the demonstration were invaluable.

Guests were Cathie Smith, Mariam Moses, G. B. Waddell and Gordon Holley. Mariam Moses of College Station became a new member.

Hostess were Nancy Parnell, Mae Morris and Eula Crook.

Each member brought a covered dish salad, fried chicken was also served. Wilma McCollum won the door prize.

FUEL... and your electric bill.

Fuel is essential in the production of electricity. Texas Power & Light Company generating plants burn very large amounts of natural gas or lignite coal and, when supplies of gas are short, oil to produce steam which operates turbine generators.

Fuel costs are charged to each TP&L customer according to the number of kilowatt-hours of electricity used by the customer.

Before July 1, 1977, your basic rate for electric service included a fuel cost of about eight-tenths of one cent for each kilowatt-hour. The additional cost of fuel used to produce your electricity was shown on your bill as a fuel adjustment factor.

Since July 1, 1977, under requirements of the new Public Utility Commission of Texas, all fuel costs have been removed from the basic rate. Now, the entire amount you pay for the fuel required to produce the electricity you used is shown on your bill in the space identified, Fuel Amt. This amount is figured by multiplying the number of kilowatt-hours of electricity you used by a fuel adjustment factor which appears on your bill in the space identified, Fuel Cost per Kwh. This factor is simply the per kilowatt-hour cost of all fuel required to produce your electricity.

The fuel cost per kilowatt-hour and the fuel amount on your electric bill will vary from month to month. These variations, either up or down, occur as the price TP&L pays for each kind of fuel fluctuates and as the amount of each kind of fuel used varies.

Q. What is the proposed Crude Oil Equalization Tax?

A. It is a tax that would be added to the price of domestic crude oil. Essentially, this tax would equal the cost differential between price-controlled and free-market priced domestic crudes. But in effect it would be a reversed tariff intended to bring the cost of domestic crude more in line with the price of foreign oil. This, it is hoped, will bring about conservation.

AMERICA'S ECONOMY

Would the Administration's proposed Crude Oil Equalization Tax (COET), which would be added to the price of controlled domestic crude oil, encourage increased domestic production?

No, the tax itself would not encourage any increased exploration or production. But because COET is a move in the direction of realistic crude oil pricing, it could be a first step towards eventual decontrol. As currently proposed, the tax revenues would go into government coffers for consumer rebates and funding other federal programs. If a portion of the revenues generated by COET was returned to producers as a "plowback" credit, it would encourage investments to find and produce additional energy supplies.
